“Leaders must understand themselves before trying to inspire others.”

What is the Emerging Leaders Program?

Regional Development Australia Limestone Coast's (RDALC) Emerging Leaders Program will be delivered over 8 months in 2023. The program will be open to people from across the region who are ready to broaden their leadership skills through personal growth, self-empowerment, and relationship development.

The focus will be on building emotional intelligence, self-awareness, and skills in working with and influencing (leading) others. Starting with a 2-day retreat in March, the program will be predominately delivered face-to face and will consist of monthly workshop sessions in locations around the region. Each session will include a community or sector focus to build participants' knowledge of current issues and opportunities, and to foster cross-sector collaboration.

Places are limited and applications will open in January 2023. Prospective participants will submit a written application. The selection process will ensure participants are genuine about their leadership journey and are drawn from diverse backgrounds.

Our Purpose is to...

- Enhance the capacity of the community to identify opportunities and address challenges through increased leadership capacity, influence, and resilience
- Support a vibrant, growing economy through collaboration across business, industry, government, and community
- Build the leadership skills of a diverse, representative range of community members
- Foster a culture of active citizenship, shared purpose, and community action.

Our Emerging Leaders Program is:

Collaborative

Cross-sectoral representation with diverse experiences across the region

Challenging

We will take participants out of their comfort zones

Respectful

Of participants' and presenters' time and expertise

Well designed

Detailed program based on adult learning principles, with meaningful project work

Supportive

Mentoring to support implementation of learning

Quality

Presenters, venues, workshops, activities, and experiences

Becoming an Emerging Leaders Partner offers your organisation the opportunity to:

- 🕒 Support community resilience and connectedness
- 🕒 Help nurture the next generation of the region's leaders
- 🕒 Enhance business, client and community networks
- 🕒 Raise your organisation's brand awareness within the Limestone Coast
- 🕒 Build connections with current and emerging community leaders

Why invest in the Emerging Leaders Program?

Is your organisation looking for philanthropic ways to support the region? Together we can develop a cohort of leaders from a range of backgrounds, sectors, and disciplines who are capable of making a positive impact.

This program will give aspiring and emerging leaders the best training available to ensure there are decision makers and leaders for the future. It will benefit business, the broader economy, and communities in our region.

Your organisation will gain valuable exposure through your partnership with the Emerging Leaders Program.

A number of places within the program will be aimed toward building potential leaders from groups that are less represented in leadership roles, such as women, people with disability and indigenous peoples. You have the option to choose what demographic or sector your scholarship is be offered to (participant criteria applies).

Cost:

- 🕒 The program delivery cost is $8,250 + GST per participant
- 🕒 We are seeking scholarships contributions of $7,500 + GST, and $14,000 + GST
- 🕒 Participants are required to pay $750 + GST to undertake the Emerging Leaders Program, which will not be covered by scholarships. This co-contribution encourages personal commitment to the program. Opportunities for instalment payments or other arrangements can be considered (participants can contact RDALC to discuss arrangements).
